NATIONAL SECURITY GUARD

It is an immense honour to lead the National Security Guard (NSG), a force distinguished by its unwavering commitment to excellence and operational finesse.

Established in 1984 as a Federal Contingency Force, the NSG is tasked with critical responsibilities, including counter-terrorism operations, counter-hijacking, bomb disposal, and providing proximate security. This elite force is a seamless integration of top-tier personnel from the Army, Police, and CAPFs, representing the pinnacle of counter-terror expertise.

Over the years, the NSG has evolved into a technologically advanced and highly proficient force. It has procured cutting-edge weaponry, achieved superior night combat capabilities, upgraded its Bomb Disposal and Detection Systems (BDDS), and integrated anti-drone systems into its arsenal. The Support Weapons Squadron (SWS) has honed its ability to operate in CBRNe (Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, and Explosive) environments, while the National Bomb Data Centre (NBDC) and Bomb Disposal Unit have developed unparalleled expertise in post-blast investigations. The Triple Purpose K9, with its remarkable abilities in assault, explosives detection, and tracking, serves as a critical asset and force multiplier. The Close Protection Force (CPF) has set benchmarks in providing seamless and comprehensive proximate security.

A significant addition to the NSG's operational prowess is its enhanced Counter-Hijack Operations capabilities tailored for River Cruises in Inland Water Transport. This capability underscores the NSG's adaptability to emerging threats in dynamic environments. Furthermore, the force is strategically planning to make inroads into Counter-Naxal Operations in Left-Wing Extremism (LWE) areas, with a focus on addressing challenges in some of the most difficult and hostile terrains in the country.

Central to our ethos is the "Duty to Share" our best practices, advanced counter-terror tactics, and operational expertise with the Army, CAPFs, and State Police Forces. The NSG Training Centre, a recognized center of excellence, has significantly bolstered its efforts in training and capacity building, catering not only to domestic security forces but also to foreign counter-terror forces from allied nations. A renewed thrust in this aspect aims to further elevate the preparedness and synergy of national and international forces alike.

With strategically positioned regional hubs, the NSG remains steadfast in its mission to execute Counter Terror operations with unmatched precision and professionalism, embodying its role as a force for national security.
